Third-party IVF

Make having a biological baby a beautiful reality by supplementing IVF with a surrogate and egg or sperm donor as needed. Access the top 5% of candidates and receive dedicated support from our team every step of the way, from initial consultation to post-conception. All within a clinic that has pioneered the world's first unlimited IVF cycle program, so you're rest assured that you'll go home with a baby and keep your costs low.

Split egg retrievals for gay couples

Bring two new biologically related family members into your life by splitting the egg retrieval and fertilizing half with each partner's sperm. This IVF treatment is available for gay and trans women couples, and is chosen for its cost-effective nature and ability to share biological ties with your newest family members.

Reciprocal IVF for lesbian couples

You can now both take part in your pregnancy journey, one partner providing the eggs, while the other carries the pregnancy. This IVF treatment is made possible with a sperm donation, and is available for lesbian and trans male couples wanting to start or expand their dream family.

My husband and I decided to have a child through surrogacy. As a same-sex couple we tend to be nervous going into a situation where we bare our hearts, but we IMMEDIATELY felt like we were on cloud nine after our first visit. Dr. Evans and our surrogate made our dream come true. We are expecting a boy in December of this year!

About PFCLA

Next to going through assisted reproduction, choosing the people to accompany you on the journey is the most important decision you'll make. That's why intended parents have been choosing the Pacific Fertility Center of Los Angeles since 1991. With success rates that are among the best in the nation, we've been a part of over 13,500 happy, healthy births, creating families and making dreams come true worldwide.

Whether through IVF or using an egg donor or surrogate, we specialize in guiding intended parents—including LGBTQ+ members—through what can be an emotional and complicated process. People, including celebrities and royalty, come from more than 75 countries to take advantage of our exceptional treatment, support, and discretion. We work with the top egg donor and surrogacy agencies in the country, leading to ideal, curated match recommendations for our intended parents. Simply put, your dreams are our passion. Everything we do is to ensure you have the most rewarding experience possible.
